

HE'S HANDSOME, WITTY, CHARMING, FRIENDLY. AND A CHILD MOLESTER.

One of the most deceiving things about child molesters is that they don't always appear to be horrible people. More often than not, they are charming, likable individuals posing as trustworthy, upstanding citizens. And they cross all boundaries of race, income and social class. At the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children, we support law enforcement in their efforts to stop these predators. To report child sexual exploitation, call the police. Then call us at 1-800-843-5678 or contact us at www.cybertipline.com. We're here to expose child molesters for what they are – and stop them from exposing their real selves to your children.
