Ride fare & time to hotel from airport

- The cab ride will take 20-35 minutes depending on traffic.
- Expect to pay around $35 USD.
- You will need to cross the street outside of the airport to get to the taxi line. (See the photos on the next page for a visual.)
- With proper phone service, Uber is also a transportation option in Québec City.

Crown Attorney's Office

- In Canada, the Crown Attorney's Office represents prosecutors in each province who are in charge of criminal cases; in Québec, this office is called the "Office of Director of Criminal and Penal Prosecutions" (Bureau de directeur des poursuites criminelles et pénales.)
- Each office is under the jurisdiction of the provincial Attorney General (or the Minister of Justice in Québec.)
- These offices are in charge of criminal prosecutions at the provincial level; each municipal district across the country has its own representation.

Things to know

- Québec City operates in military time.
- Canadian French and Canadian English are the languages spoken in Québec City.

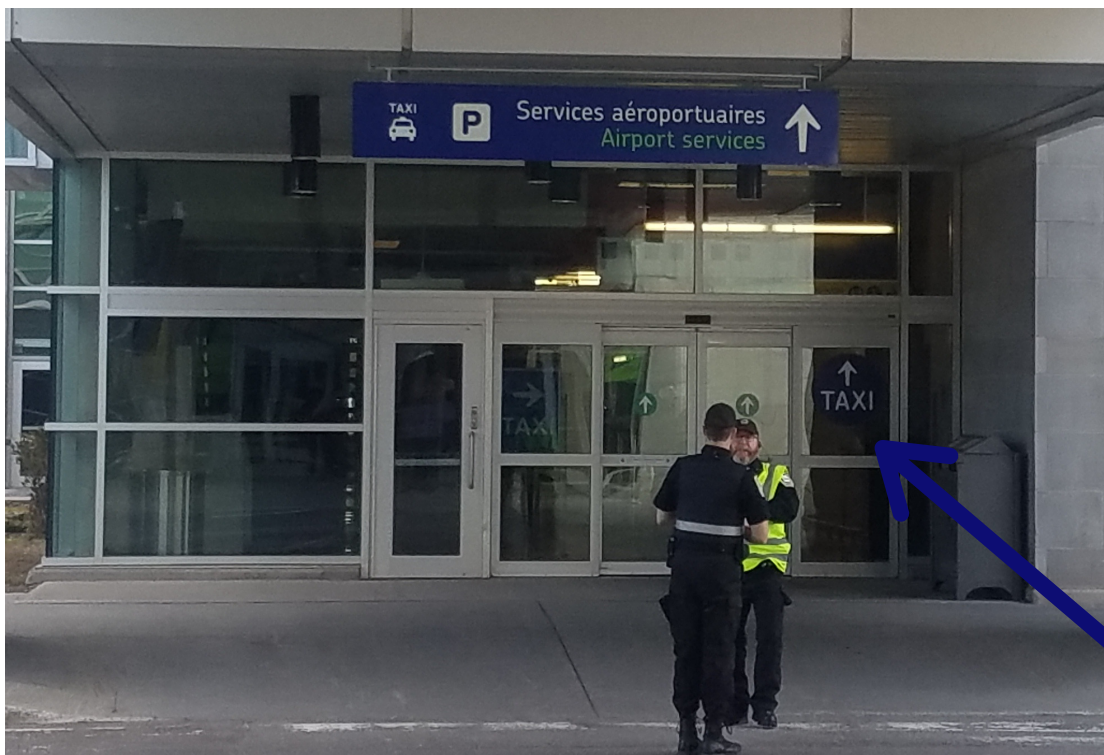

Don't forget

- Your passport!
- Check with your cell phone service provider to understand how your phone will work in Canada.
- Many banks have foreign currency you can exchange before you leave. Avoid high exchange rates at the airport and get some Canadian dollars prior to your trip. Find a bank near you to get currency, here.
- If you have a connecting flight after landing in Canada to get to Québec City, you will go through customs before boarding your connecting flight, so plan accordingly.

Here is a photo of the airport perspective as you exit. You will need to enter the doors across from the cross walk to access the taxi line.
